Holiday cheer in the classroom and the QM

Debbie Werber and Lilia Vetter conducted a Santa's Workshop with the 6th grade class. Using material from Debbie's grandmother, the boys cut and braided strips of material then formed pot holders to give to their Moms.

Quartermaster, Judi Casstevens and Teresa Bellerive, assitant quartermaster, hosted a holiday party prior to winter break. ChenHao Yu, Nicholas Walters, and Tyler Riley stopped by the QM to enjoy tastes of the season.

"I cannot express enough how much we appreciate Dale's very generous contributions he has made over the years. Most recently, donating his time stepping in as our interim President. It is a great sacrifice on his part, putting his personal life on hold and devoting almost an entire year leading the ongoing activities of the school. Once again, his efforts have laid the groundwork to assure a long and prosperous future for St. Johns. He is one of the most generous human beings I have ever met."

Rob Exline - Chairman, Board of Trustees

D. Dale Browning

Once again....at the helm.

Ask anyone connected with St. John's what D. Dale Browning has done for St. John's in his sixty-two years of association with the school and the list will be long. Graduating from St. John's with honors in 1955, Browning continued on a path of achievement. His interest in his alma mater goes way beyond the usual alumni involvement. Serving as a member of the board of trustees for many years, and now as trustee emeritus, Browning has once again stepped in to run the school during a transition year. Serving as interim president, D. Dale has at great personal sacrifice moved back to Salina guiding the school through the process of finding the next president. Often in his office before breakfast and not returning to his apartment in Jack Vanier Hall until after the evening meal, Dale fills his days with meetings and luncheons and counseling sessions with Cadets. All this is done as a service to his beloved St. John's.

Browning's vision for the physical plant has transformed the area around the tear drop to include eagles atop the Loy/Guernsey memorial columns, and new bronze plaques to be unveiled near the entrance of Armstrong Chapel at commencement this year.

Beloved by "Old Boys" and "New Boys" alike, Browning cherishes his relationships with Cadets, the heart of the school. When asked why he gave up his comfortable life in retirement to once again serve as interim president of his alma mater he replies, "I consider my service to St. John's as a chance to return a small portion of what St. John's gave to me. My time as a Cadet at St. John's served as a solid foundation for the success I enjoyed throughout my professional life."

Every summer Browning hosts a recruiting reception at his home in Golden, Colorado. “Old Boys” gather with Browning, their mentor and friend, to help tell the St. John’s story. The summer of 2016 brought this group of Cadets together on the lawn in the backyard of D. Dale’s Golden, Colorado home.

"I feel more healthy, I feel like I should set the example to other Cadets, and physical fitness motivated me to do this. I have to give a really big shout out to Gianni Falossi and Elliot Shults because they saved my life and I couldn't have done it without them. My ultimate goal is to one day be Mr. Olympia. I feel accomplished for what I have done for myself. I also want to say thank you to all my friends and family that have supported me!"

C/LTC Justin Gilbert

A wise man once said, "a journey of a thousand miles begins with one step." Many years ago, Susan and Don Gilbert took that step and gave Justin the opportunity to attend St. John's. Susan explains, "We knew we would miss him terribly and not being able to see him everyday, not having him home would be the hardest, but we also knew giving him the best education that we could in our hearts we knew that would get us through." As Justin has grown and achieved great success the Gilberts are most proud of the fact that "he calls us and tells us how much he loves us everyday and thanks us for giving him this wonderful opportunity in his young life to be able to attend St. Johns and giving him the gift to get the best education possible." Knowing the financial commitment was going to be great the Gilberts feel, "we could never put a price on Justin's education. We would have done what ever it took to send him to St. John's. What Justin has achieved since attending St. John's is priceless and has made it worth every penny."

Justin also added a second journey to his life at St. John's. At the beginning of his junior year he started working out. He credits his good friend and former BC Gian Falossi who "brought me down to the gym one day, and showed me the basics of what I should start doing. I didn't take it seriously until the next year when I realized I could be facing some serious health complications in my life if I kept going down the path I was going." Justin's folks stepped in again to provide Justin with a professional trainer, Elliot Shults, of Las Vegas, Nevada. As a result Justin's pant size went from a 46 to a 32 and his shirt size from XXL to medium. He works out 2 hours a day in the gym and eats 5 small meals throughout the day. He explains, "the gym is now a lifestyle."

“This is a story of a eleven year old boy who left his loving home and family in Las Vegas, Nevada to attend St. John’s Military School, approximately 1,180 miles away in Salina, Kansas. When he arrived at St. John’s he enrolled in the 6th grade. He finished grade 5 at home and was unaware of the structure he would now encounter; however, he assimilated well, following regulations and forming relationships with students and the staff. Early on he showed interest in the drill team. He worked very hard spending after school hours practicing repeatedly and became very proficient with the rifle; therefore helping him to compete for a spot on the team. He accomplished his goal and became a member of the drill team and eventually commander.

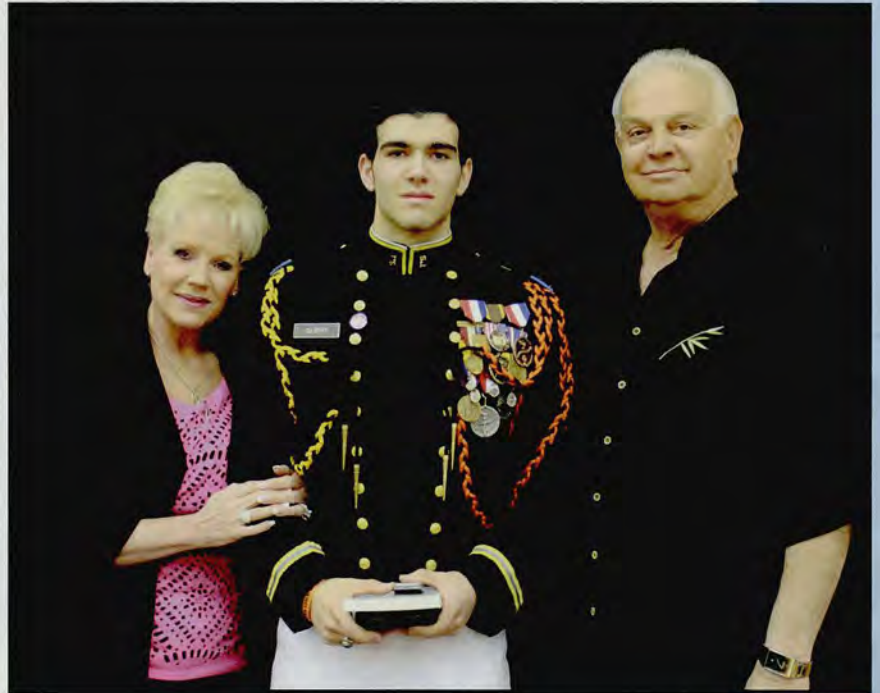

A young man, who was overweight and was determined to change, decided on his own to make it happen. He knew what he could and couldn’t eat as well as the importance of a gym work out (which he still does today) and because of his discipline he lost approximately 100 lbs.

This boy is now a fine young man achieving membership on the Honor Roll. He had the desire to become a leader, a LTC and Battalion Commander of the 129th Corps at St. John’s Military School, and that he did. LTC Justin M. Gilbert is our grandson, and we are so proud when we see him leading the Cadets and know the journey he has experienced to be the young man he is today. The staff of St. John’s has also been responsible for his guidance and helped him achieve his dream. Our untold gratitude to: Mr. Dale Browning, CPT Mike Reid, Wendy Stein, and Terry Plumberg and the entire faculty at St. John’s who helped all these young men become the pride of tomorrow.”

Sincerely, Pat and Jim Lundstrom (Also known as Na-Nu and Pa-Pa)

As Justin prepares to graduate the Gilbert’s have a message for the SJMS staff. “Each and everyone of you makes St. Johns what it is. We want to thank everyone for taking our son and guiding him, loving him, teaching him, giving him the space to make his own decisions and being there for him. Also, for providing him with the best education he could ever have. What everyone has done for our son is beyond any words, we will be forever grateful for St. John’s and most of all the family we have become and the love we have for each and everyone of you.”

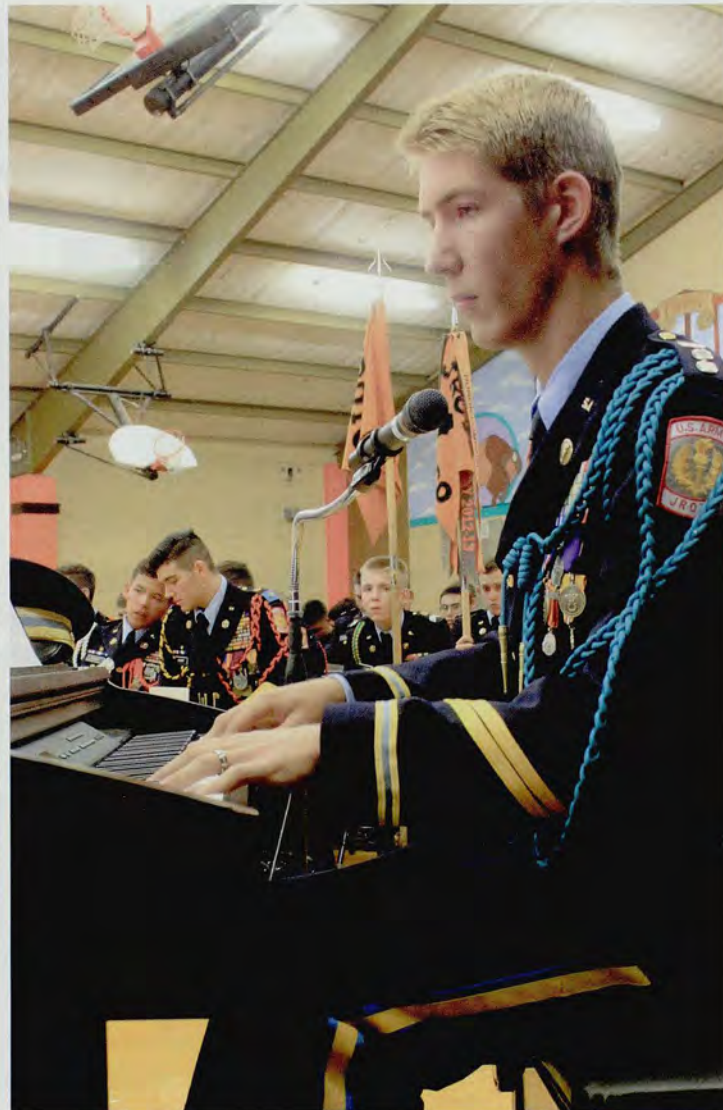

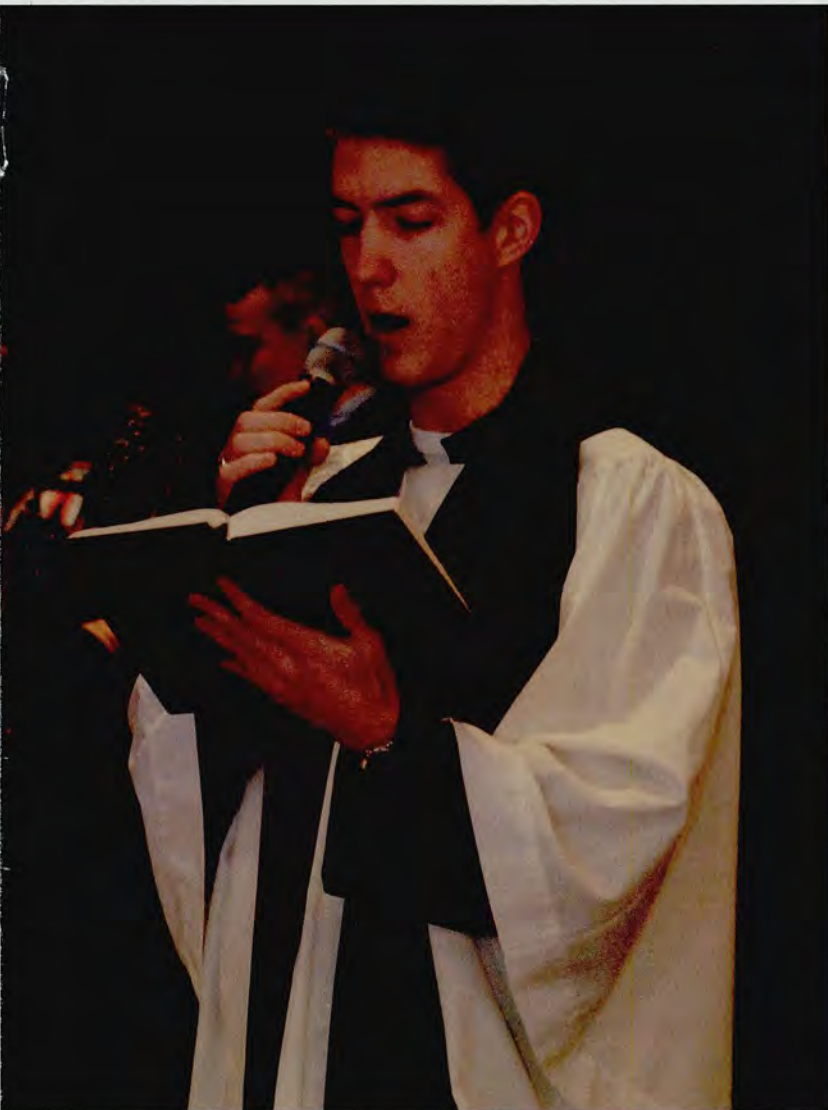

The family gathered after Justin received the coveted MacArthur Award. The annual award is presented by the General Douglas Mac Arthur Foundation. The objective of the MacArthur Award is to encourage the students of the member institutions to emulate and practice the qualities exemplified by Douglas MacArthur while he was a cadet. MacArthur was a cadet at West Texas Military Institute and the United States Military Academy. The criteria for the award consists of exhibiting the most soldierly performance by a senior class cadet considering academics, athletics, and leadership.

Caleb Kirkpatrick

When Caleb Kirkpatrick arrived at St. John's at the beginning of his junior year he mentioned he could sing. As it turns out...he sure can sing. During our initial meeting, Kirkpatrick mentioned he would be interested in singing the Star Spangled Banner. As soon as he opened his mouth I was transformed to a place of gratitude and joy! Caleb's voice was strong, true, and full of purity and strength. What came naturally to Caleb and what made his singing most significant was that he sang from his heart. As I grew to know more about this young man it became apparent why his singing was so pure. His singing is his worship, he sings to the heavens like no other Cadet has done before. His Christian faith guides him in all things and his voice serves him well.

As president of chapel council and choir master he shares his gifts willingly and graciously every Sunday and during Wednesday evening chapel services. In addition to his singing he accompanies himself at the piano.

Each day during his study hall, Kirkpatrick spends time at the piano in the round room rehearsing songs for the praise band which provides special music during Wednesday night chapel services. He constantly searches for songs which will give glory to his maker and inspire the Cadets to worship in song. When the song speaks to the Cadet corps, Armstrong Chapel transforms into the Mormon Tabernacle. There have been many Sundays when Caleb's voice is drowned out by the corps and that's just fine with him. He sings to lead and inspire and that's what he's done.

Working with Father Randy McIntosh, Kirkpatrick also prepares the slide presentation for Sunday and helps choose the hymns for each service. Kirkpatrick has been a huge help during weekly choir practices. His strong voice and willingness to lead has transformed the group of Cadets who signed up to sing, into a genuine choir. Caleb is not alone in his talent for singing; several choir members join willingly and enthusiastically in song every Sunday. Iteoluwakisi Adekeye, Elijah Blackmon, Luis Carrion Guerra, Max Duncan, Jovanni Renteria, Connor Schieffer, and Nicholas Walters join Kirkpatrick and myself in the choir loft each Sunday.

In my many years of tenure at St. John's, no other Cadet has stood as confidently and proudly in front of his peers and joyfully sang to the heavens like Caleb. Thank you for sharing your music with us. Mrs. Stein

Over 100 years of combined service!

“The combined service of these treasured SJMS employees will most likely never be matched again. To say they will be missed is an understatement. They have each in their own way given selflessly and generously of their time and talents to many generations of Cadets. Their presence was felt in both their dedication to the Cadet corps and to their fellow staff members. My wish for each of you is happy trails in your retirement years.”
Sincerely, D. Dale Browning

Ricky Jordan

Ricky Jordan likes to say... 'have a nice day' after he makes an announcement over the school intercom system. Often times SFC "J" is dealing with disciplinary issues. As Deputy Commandant, he holds the Cadets feet to the fire. His job demands he be on campus very early each weekday morning as he watches over RATT physical training and the Cadets with extra duty hours.

He departs campus late in the afternoon following the completion of his duties. As he drives away, he looks forward to his return.

Retiring for the second time, SFC Jordan spent twenty-one years in the United States Army, and twenty years at SJMS. SFC Jordan is ready to relish his golden years.

Enjoy your time with family and friends.

Phil Kellogg

Phil Kellogg grew up on the St. John's campus. His dad, COL Paul H. Kellogg served as Commandant of Cadets while his mom Mary spoiled and cared for the Cadets. Phil attended college and returned to SJMS as a teacher and coach. In 1991 he led the football team to the best record on file, going 8-1. Kellogg and his wife Janice left St. John's to follow their dream of owning a pizza franchise. Phil returned to the St. John's family as an admissions counselor and following a move to Colorado became the point of contact for all Colorado admissions inquiries.

Quick of wit and fun loving, Phil enjoyed many years as a member of the admissions staff.

Retirement will most likely include time with his grand kids. Rock on, Coach!

Mark Polzella

A rocket scientist by training, Mark Polzella attended West Point and taught advanced science and math courses over his long teaching career. To generations of Cadets he is Major "P" the administrator of quantum physics and the man who can explain mathematics in his sleep. Taking a math class from Major Polzella more than guarantees mathematical understanding. Mark Polzella takes his job seriously but insists on a relaxed learning environment. The Cadets learn to respect the mathematical process while conquering their fear of advanced math.

Mark recently became a grandpa for the first time and plans to make the most of his free time once he leaves the classroom. Happiness in this new chapter of your life.

Chris Zerger

If you can be successful in Chris Zerger's English classroom, you can make it anywhere. Attention to detail and the rules of grammar stand tall... deadlines are set to be met and late work isn't tolerated. For countless college-bound Cadets, membership in Zerger's class means being well prepared for the rigors of college life.

Zerger has a zest for life and the arts and literature are at the heart of her passion. Founder of the annual New York Trip, Chris Zerger feels passionate about how art in any form can enhance our lives.

Cadets fear and love Chris for her demanding demeanor and know she is a master of her craft.

Retirement plans include spending time with family and walks on the beach.

Enjoy your next journey.

The Rifle Team. . . . continues a strong tradition of high scoring air rifle shooters.

The SJMS rifle team competes at Camp Perry. Cadets James Peterson, Captain of the team, Branden Rucker, Daniel Wei and Xu Lei Yang shoot in three positions: kneeling, prone and standing.

“Four members of the St. John’s Military School rifle team competed at the JROTC Regional Championships at Camp Perry, Ohio, during winter Parents’ Weekend. We did not come back with any medals but the experience the boys gained by participating in this prestigious event was more than worth the trip. I would like to thank the St. John’s administration for their support in making this trip possible for the team. It is also important to note that we beat many other teams just to qualify for this event and receive an invitation to participate. The SJMS team was one of only four precision air rifle teams selected to compete at Camp Perry.

The team from Stuttgart, Germany, took first place; Vilseck, Germany, earned second place; Marion Military Academy, Illinois, scored enough points to earn third place, and St. John’s Military School came in fourth. The top shooter for St. John’s was Branden Rucker with a score of 1099. He was only 30 points from making it into the finals. Fourteen points behind Branden Rucker was Xu Lei Yang with a score of 1085, James Peterson shot a 1079, followed by Daniel Wei with a 1064.

Three of the boys improved their score from the first day to the second. Branden showed the most improvement by bettering his first day score by eleven points. That is especially cool when you take into consideration, his first day score of 544 was his career high to date.

I am so very proud of all the Cadets. They represented St. John's as well as you would hope, both on and off the range. I have no doubt all of the boys gained invaluable experience and will be much better shooters for it. There is something to say about rubbing elbows with the best in the nation. They see what is possible and the ceiling is automatically raised." Tony Coach Blair

Xu Kei Yang, Branden Rucker, James Peterson, Daniel Wei and Coach Tony Blair gather in front of Olympic shooter and SJMS "Old Boy," George Norton featured on a poster on the wall at Camp Perry.

As the Cadets reach certain levels, staff, faculty and Cadets volunteered to take a pie in the face for this good cause. If they raise over $500.00, the senior class gets a lunch from Olive Garden. By March 31, they had raised $410.00, and Mrs. Stein contributed the last $90.00. Enjoy your lunch, seniors! Way to go, 129th!
