Film Company Adds $50,000 Drive Plank

The "Gap" is being bridged at St. John's Military School and the School's present and past Trustees learned in late February a $50,000 plank is in place.

"Bridging the Gap" is a fund drive to raise $360,000 to complete financing of the School's new academic center and barracks remodeling.

Col. Keith G. Duckers, President, told a past and present Trustees luncheon of a $50,000 gift from the 92nd Corps of Cadets, courtesy of Warner Bros., the film company which used the Salina school as a location for a feature film last year.

"Warner Bros. made the gift to the building drive in the name of the Cadets," Duckers said, "in gratitude for the cooperation and services of the Corps during the filming."

Robert Kastner, chairman of the past trustees portion of the drive, said past trustees have contributed $6000 toward a goal of $15,000.

Totally, the drive has gathered about $250,000 of the $360,000 goal. "The 'gap' is about two-thirds bridged," Kastner said.

The new academic/administration building -- which will be ready for occupancy at mid-August -- replaces historic Vail Hall, destroyed by fire in November, 1978. Work in other building at the school will convert former classrooms into student rooms.

An insurance settlement paid $1,227,000 for the loss of Vail Hall with the new building and renovation project reaching a total of $1,620,000.

"The Warner Bros. gift was in addition to a significant fee paid for the use of the School in the film", Colonel Duckers said. "We're grateful."

The movie filmed under the name, "The Brave Young Men of Weinberg" tentatively is due for release in April. Information is that the film has been sold to Mad Magazine and will be retitled before release.

"The School now has a capacity of 160 Cadets", Duckers said, "And every bunk is filled. We expect to have a capacity of 200 when the renovation is complete."

Kastner said, "St. John's now really has something to sell. It always has had an excellent academic program; now it will have facilities worthy of that program."

Scholars Test For Awards

The SJMS Scholarship team has been selected by Lt. Col. Kenneth C. Faerber, Academic Dean, and Lt. Louis Lyda, Counselor. Members of the team took tests in various subjects to compete for awards in the Post Rock League and the state classification competition.

Taking the tests were Mark Bassett, Kevin Gravel, Scot Greenidge, Brian Jennings, Douglas Johnston, Rick Makoski, Kevin Price and Truls Ringkjøb, all seniors.

Juniors competing were Shawn Goforth, Ted Hubert, Tom Marelle, Max Montgomery, Russell Ramay, Gordon Snider and Paul Unterwerger.

Cadets to Parade

The Cadet Band and a special Cadet marching platoon will march in the American Legion Fifth District Convention Parade in El Dorado, Kas., April 12.

Duckers Chairs Evaluation

Col. Keith G. Duckers, SJMS President, was the chairman of the Independent Schools Association of the Central States evaluation team at a recent three-day visitation of Missouri Military Academy, Mexico, Mo.

NEW ACADEMIC CENTER

TAKING SHAPE -- Construction is proceeding rapidly on the new academic/administration center at SJMS. The inset drawing shows how the front of the structure will look when completed in August. Steel work for the roof is now all in place and parts of the roof have been shingled. Bill Baxter, construction supervisor and SJMS trustee, says that the work program is just about on schedule.

Cadets Compete In Forensics

SJMS Cadets have competed in two Forensics tournaments with Lt. Col. Kenneth Faerber, Academic Dean, acting as the forensics coach. A speech, debate and forensics teacher will be added to the teaching staff next fall.

Four Cadets participated in a tournament at Ell-Saline High School, Brookville, March 11. Gordon Snider qualified for the finals in informative speaking. Max Montgomery placed first in the "prose" interpretation category and qualified for state competition. Mark Southerland also competed in the prose category.

Qualifying for the finals in poetry were Terry Fihaley and Richard Fawcett. Fihaley placed second and will go on to state competition. Snider and Montgomery also participated in the duet acting section of the tournament.

Colonel Faerber said 14 teams were entered in the tournament and SJMS with only five Cadets on the team placed fifth in total points.

Six Cadets participated in a tournament at Wamego High School, March 8. The Cadets and their events were Snider, informative speaking, Montgomery and Southerland, prose interpretation; Fihaley and Fawcett, poetry. Snider and Montgomery and Mike Hill and Richard Fawcett gave duet acting presentations.

Before the season began, the Cadets attended a Forensics Workshop at Kansas State University. The final competition of the season before the state tournament will be the regionals, March 29.

SJMS Benefactor
J.J. Vanier Dies

John J. Vanier, the quiet friend of St. John's who parlayed a $75 a month job into a food processing, milling and ranching empire, is dead. Mr. Vanier, 83, died at his home in Salina, Feb. 20 after a long illness.

Mr. Vanier, almost alone, kept St. John's Military School going with financial aid during the lean years of the late '40s and early '50s after the School had suffered a disastrous fire in 1948 and was faced with a steadily declining enrollment.

His two sons, Jack and Jerry, are St. John's "old boys" and both have served on the School's Board of Trustees as did their father.

Mr. Vanier was on the Board at the time it was decided the School needed a new dining hall. Col. R.L. Clem, former St. John's president now retired in Denver, tells the story: a group of businessmen sat in the School lounge discussing ways to raise the money. Mr. Vanier commented that the money was going to be raised right in that room because there would be no magic gifts of money from the East. He asked each man what he would contribute and the money to build Nichols Hall was raised.

A few years later, the Trustees including Mr. Vanier, decided to hire a man to promote the School in public relations, publicity and admissions. The man hired by the Board is the current SJMS President, Col. Keith G. Duckers.

The Salina Journal in its obituary called Mr. Vanier, a quiet philanthropist. It said, "Mr. Vanier did not seek the spotlight of publicity. He particularly was reticent about the contributions he made to his community and other institutions. In 1976, however, he was persuaded to attend the dedication of Founder's Park, the historic piece of land near downtown Salina which was the contribution of Mr. and Mrs. Vanier to the Salina Bicentennial commission. The gift had special meaning to him since it was near the site of Salina's first flour mill.

"He was also known as a particular friend of educational institutions". These included SJMS and Kansas State University, Manhattan.

His quiet interest in the School is carried on by his son, Jack, who has just completed six years as a SJMS Trustee and is still active on the construction committee supervising work on the new academic/administration center. Jack supervised and directed the demolition operations of Vail Hall, salvaging all materials and memorabilia that would be of value to the School, often at great personal risk.

Jack's wife, Donna Lindsey Vanier, was the coordinator between the School staff and the Warner Bros. staff during the filming of "Up The Academy". She has continued working for the School by assisting with the "Bridging The Gap" fund campaign.

Help Curb Inflation

A massive public service advertising campaign to curb inflation is being waged throughout the U.S. by the Advertising Council in cooperation with the U.S. Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Labor, and Treasury.

The campaign theme: "We can all beat inflation if we just use our dollars and sense." And the campaign's most important guide is a booklet titled Dollar$ and Sen$e.

Worry Will Whip One

Worry is a disease. It leaves lines on your face and marks on your mind which time will never eradicate. Learn to face things as they come and when they come with calm deliberation. You may not be able to control events, but you can control your attitude toward them.

A contented mind is a continual feast.

Franklin Proposed Saving Light

It was Benjamin Franklin who first proposed the establishment of daylight saving time. The idea came to the American genius when he was serving as United States Minister to France.

Franklin, who knew that a penny saved is a penny earned, figured that in the spring and summer time, Parisians unnecessarily burned candles for 1,281 hours. But Paris laughed him down.

The proposal was not revived until 1914 when daylight saving time was introduced in England as a means of conserving power and fuel during World War I.

A VALENTINE FROM A VALENTINE -- Mrs. Hazel Fonck, who has worked at St. John's School for more than 40 years, got a special Valentine's Day honor from the Cadets. Presenting the card from all of the Cadets was none other than Fred Valentine (center). She also received a corsage from Eric Erickson, representing the "Blue Beret" academic club, and a sports jacket emblazoned with Lower and Upper School emblems from all the athletic programs. Mrs. Fonck will be retiring shortly after the close of the 1979-80 academic year.

SJ Gets National Movie Publicity

From the east coast to the west coast, St. John's Military School and Salina, Kansas, are being featured in a national Associated Press Feature story about the filming on the School's campus.

St. John's School was the location for the filming of a movie set on a military school campus. The movie was filmed under the title, "The Brave Young Men of Weinberg"; however since Mad Magazine has bought a part of the movie the title has been changed.

The clippings have come from West Trenton, N.J.; Lincoln, Neb.; Rocky Mountain News, Denver; Scranton, Pa.; Escondido, Calif.; Sun City, Calif.; and Norman, Okla.

Tad Bartimus, AP reporter, wrote: "The Kansas connection began last spring when production designer Peter Wooley and unit production manager Ira Loonstein contacted Richard Shank of the State's Department of Economic Development. They were looking for a military school to make a movie. The site they chose, they said, would probably reap about $1 million in business from the deal.

"Shank contacted St. John's Military School President Keith Duckers and Jim Robertson of the Salina Chamber of Commerce. They agreed: 'Let's shoot for it'."

"When Salina won out over Pennsylvania competition, the great talent hunt was on. At the first casting call, 900 people showed up to try out as extras."

"Although the film is not particularly flattering to military schools, Duckers convinced the Board of Trustees the Hollywood presence would be good for the 93-year old institution."

Warner Brothers paid a fee to the School for each Cadet who appeared in the film, hired teachers to make up the 16 days of shooting time the Cadets spent out of the classroom and contributed $25,000 to establish a fine arts program. A flat fee also went to the school."

"Margie really takes this leap year idea very seriously."

Greenidge Rotary Guest

Scot Greenidge, Cadet Battalion Commander, was the student guest at the Salina Rotary Club meeting Jan. 28. He gave a brief talk on "What SJMS Is All About".

"I think Jeff is getting serious. He invited me home to meet his turtle."
