PECUSA Retreat Set For May 6-8

A last outing for all Cadet Seniors will be held at PECUSA Episcopal church camp near Stockton, Kans., May 6-8.

The retreat was started several years ago as a chance for the seniors to be alone together to discuss plans for the future.

The Cadets will leave campus following classes May 6 and will return Sunday afternoon May 8. A relaxed atmosphere is maintained to allow boys a chance to have time to themselves or to discuss what the future holds in group sessions.

Recreational facilities are available at the lake. And a highlight of past retreats has been the excellent food served.

D&B Makes 3 Performances

The Drum and Bugle Corps has and will make three public appearances at various functions in the Salina area.

The Corps performed at Salina High School April 20. The group presented its patriotic drill and the drummers performed solos.

The flag raising ceremony at the Kansas Wesleyan University relays was performed by the St. John's Corps. The boys played a concert following the ceremony.

The group will present the flag and play a concert at a Governor's Conference in Wichita, May 13. More details on this appearance will be announced later.

ATTENDS FOUNDATION MEET

Col. R. L. Clem, Rector and Superintendent, was a guest speaker at the meeting of the Denver Chapter of the St. John's Military School Foundation in Denver April 19. Mrs. Clem accompanied the Rector on the visitation.

Fort Band Here For Commencement

Word has been received that Ft. Riley's 437th Army Band will play for Commencement ceremonies at St. John's Military School, May 22.

The band will play a concert during the noon buffet and will provide the music for the Commencement exercises and the final retreat parade.

Arrangements were made for the school by Maj. Gen. C. C. "Monte" Parrish, Commanding General, 89th Division.

Inspection Was A Success

The annual formal inspection under the National Defense Cadet Corps program went "extremely well" according to Lt. Col. Paul H. Kellogg, Commandant.

Colonel Kellogg said there were no derogatory remarks and the inspecting officer wrote a complimentary report of the day's activities.

The inspecting officer was Maj. Edward C. Buster, Senior Army Instructor of the ROTC unit at Carthage High School, Carthage, Mo.

The inspector was greeted by an honor guard, was honored by a parade, inspected barracks and facilities, uniforms, weapons and records.

He attended a military class and viewed performances by the Crack Platoon and Crack Drill Squad.

The results of the inspection will be received sometime during the summer.

Miss Beech Gives Books

Five books have been added to the St. John's Military School Clem Library as a gift from Miss Maud Beech, former Trustee of the School from Wichita.

The books are "The Seventeen Book of Prayer", published by Seventeen magazine; "The Woman in America", Lifton, "Chronology of World Aviation", Gurney; "Outpost of Freedom," Donlon, and "The Old Glory", Robert Lowell.

Alumni Dinner Set For May 20

St. John's "Old Boys" will be honored at a dinner at 6 p.m., May 20 during Commencement weekend. Alums and their families will be special guests of the Cadet Corps in Nichols dining hall.

A section for alums will be reserved at the Military Ball in Memorial Hall, May 21.

The final retreat parade will be in honor of alumni and will be reviewed by those "old boys" attending.

A dozen Princeton files for use in the Clem Library magazine room were presented to the school by the Librarians Club recently.

In New York City, the group will have a complete guided tour of the United Nations with the remainder of the day open for observing U. N. Special sessions.

Visits to the Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty and tours of Manhattan Island will be high points of the New York visit.

Bishop Davidson said he hoped there would be a replacement by June 1 for the two churches.

Hey, There's Something in My Cake!

..... Gee, A Special Pass

When a Cadet at St. John's Military School finds something in his cake, he goes straight to the Commandant and not the Pure Food and Drug Administration.

That something is usually a special pass. On special days, Frank Moomau, St. John's chef, bakes individual cakes for each table of ten and into that cake is baked a special pass.

Cake is eaten carefully so a pass isn't lost.

Frank's job is a big one. He serves 750 meals during the day six days a week. The Saturday mess count drops to about 575 meals for Cadets like to eat hamburgers on pass in downtown Salina.

Any mother of a teenage son probably wonders how Frank fills 215 boys in the 12-18 age bracket. He uses 60 to 70 gallons of milk a day; 120 dozen eggs a week, 35 pounds of coffee a week and a thousand pounds of flour in a month.

Frank's recipes for example point out the amount of food needed. His meatloaf recipe calls for 75 pounds of ground beef, 2½ pounds of onions, 15 ounces of salt, 10 pounds of dry bread or other filler and five dozen eggs.

When he bakes raisin bread, the 44 eighteen-inch loaves are gone in no time. No matter how many loaves he bakes, there is never enough. Cadets could eat it into infinity.

Home-made bread is a specialty. His recipes includes white, black, molasses-cracked wheat, honey-cracked wheat and sour dough breads. Rolls for hamburgers are frequently home-made. The french loaf for "hero" sandwiches always comes from the St. John's ovens.

Frank's wife, Renee, is the pastry chef and makes 270 sweet rolls when they are on the breakfast menu. The count for breakfast biscuits runs about 1100 per meal.

Frank has been cooking since 1926 when he worked his way through school working in a bakery for wages of $3 a week and board and room.

The Army discovered his talents and he was a cook, mess sergeant, and a baker. He was baking for the Army in Paris when he met and married Renee.

In addition to these jobs, Frank has managed restaurants, worked for a grocery chain, managed a private club and was the chef at a Wichita hotel before taking over the St. John's operation six years ago. The school has been fortunate in having had only three chefs during the last 40 years—Al Hart, now the night watchman; Bill Samuelson, retired and living in Colorado Springs, and Frank.

During the course of a day, beginning at 4 a.m., Frank manages the work of 11 kitchen employees, does the buying and much of the cooking. He takes a few hours off in the afternoon before returning to work the supper hour.

The Moomaus share their talents when needed in the community. They cook sausage for the Kiwanis Pancake feed—684 pounds of meat this year—; bake the Epiphany Cake with symbols inside for the Christ Episcopal Cathedral Epiphany party on Jan. 6, and make the batter for the Cathedral's Shrove Tuesday pancake supper.

Many of Salina's civic clubs hold a meeting each year at the school.

The big problem in this type of food operation is "The Schedule". The Cadets report in to eat right on time and expect food to be waiting. Frank has only requested a time extension twice—once when the turkeys were larger than anticipated and the other time when meat loaves stayed pink. A food preservative had been added to the hamburger at the packing house and the longer it cooked the redder it became.

To break the monotony of institutional food, Frank holds hootennanny chili suppers, cooks hamburgers in the park, stages luaus and watermelon feeds, and provides food for military bivouacs.

The candlelight steak dinners are the most popular "routine break" with the Cadets. The end is a flaming success—either Cherries Jubilee or Blueberry Flambee.

The Thanksgiving dinner for 800 and the Commencement are also Frank's projects. A catering service was used one Thanksgiving but it wasn't as efficient nor the food as good as that prepared in the SJMS kitchen.

Pennsylvania lima beans, baron of beef and cherry delight salad are features of his buffet dinners. (Incidentally, the recipes are a guarded secret.) Buffets are served at the dinners honoring Trustees of the School, and School's Lettermen and frequently at Easter.

The buffets are something to see. The table is usually decorated with an ice craving for Frank is also an artist. He attacks 300-pounds blocks of ice to create baskets for flowers, hearts, angels, squirrels or maybe the year number of the graduating senior class.

Hams are glazed and decorated. Cakes become decorated skirts for dolls. The ready-to-eat buffet is lovely and one hates to break the picture.

Appetites are always good except for the beginning of the school year when homesickness cuts appetites. A day or two following furlough food consumption may reach a low peak.

Mountains of mashed potatoes are consumed by Cadets. One evening Frank prepared enough to feed generously 480 people according to the charts. The Cadets finished these off and still wanted more. Some foods are popular and others aren't. Cadets may like what the staff doesn't and vice versa. A hot German potato salad, for example, was popular with the faculty but too sophisticated for teenage tastes. So back to the mashed potatoes.
