Cadets Give Up Lunch To Aid Biafran Cause

The Biafran "Keep Them Flying" fund was richer due to the generosity of the Cadets in the 81st Corps.

Three Marymount College girls presented the Biafran story during a recent Chapel Session. After the talk, the Cadet Corps voted to do without lunch on Wednesday, March 26, and that the money saved be sent to provide parts for planes and salaries for the pilots ferrying food to the isolated country. C-Company also took up a donation to be sent. A total of $124.53 was mailed.

As one of the Marymount students said in a "Letter to the Editor" of The Salina Journal: "Our experience at St. John's Military School was entirely different. After the presentation one of the boys proposed that they give up a meal and donate the money saved to the Biafran cause. The entire student body jumped to their feet in approval. Then one small boy ventured to suggest that they could give up a meal a day for a week. This also met with the boys' approval, although for the sake of their health it wasn't permitted."

This response came after a negative response from a civic club. The student continued: "Why such different reactions between the two groups? I can't understand it. Call it Lesson No. 1 in the Generation Gap!"

J. L. Armstrong Heads Key Club

The Key Club elected officers for the 1969-70 school year. Jimmy Lee Armstrong will head the club as president.

Other officers are Dan Phillips, vice president; Jim Robertson, secretary, and Bob Thomas treasurer.

B-Company Takes Intramural Title

Lt. Robert Stevens

Led by the strong shooting and play-making of Joe Price, the B-Company intramural basketball took the Battalion championship last month, defeating A-Company 46-36.

The game held fairly even during the first half with B-Company holding only a three-point advantage at the end of the first frame and again at the end of the half. But with six field goals in the third period, B-Company increased its lead to 31-23.

A-Company just could not play catchup ball. They scored 13 points, but B-Company could not be stopped. The A-Company late period spurt was led by Tim Butterfield who scored 10 points before fouling out with two minutes to go.

Price was high scorer for the victors with 20 points. Steve Blakemore, Tom Byers and John Atkins each hit for six. Butterfield led the losers with 17 tallies. Bill Harrington connected for six.

B-Company advanced to the finals by downing C-Company, 47-18. Price again was the big man leading the team scoring with 16 points. He was matched by Mike Scahill with 16. Don Strahley was the high point man for C-Company with seven.

The losers in this first round tilt were unable to hit a field goal until midway through the third frame when Strahley connected from the circle. Meanwhile B-Company just kept adding to their 19-7 first half advantage.

A-Company also had no trouble winging their way into the finals, beating Headquarters Company, 39-7. Butterfield was again high with 17 points, followed by Dwight Bruening and Harrington with eight each. Jim Martinez hit four of Headquarters seven points.

However in the B-Team division, the winners were reversed. The final game saw Headquarters Company come out on top over C-Company, 52-17.

George Jenkins was the star for Headquarters hitting 18 tallies, all from the field. Gene Strickland and Dennis Everett both hit 12 points, two of Strickland's coming from the charity stripe. Robin Burchett was the only C-Company man hitting well, as he connected for nine points.

In preliminary play C-Company downed A-Company and Headquarters turned the tables on B-Company.
