All members will have the opportunity to purchase sweaters. They are black in color with an orange stripe on the sleeve. On the front is the St. John's emblem in the form of a shield. It is orange with black lettering. Below in orange is the legend, "St. John's Junior School."

Chaplain Teaches Religious Education; Others Have Regular Classes

The new chaplain, the Reverend John F. Moore, is the son of the Reverend Henry B. Moore, vicar of St. Peter's Church, Minneapolis, Kans. He was born in San Juan, Porto Rico, but moved to the United States when a mere boy. After graduating from the high school in Tombstone, Ariz., he studied for a year at Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., and then completed his course in the collegiate department attached to Nashotah Theological Seminary in Wisconsin. He continued on at the Seminary, graduating with honors. He was ordained to the Diaconate by the Rt. Rev. Harwood Sturdivant in the chapel of St. Mary the Virgin, Nashotah. With the view of qualifying for service in the medical missionary field, he took pre-medical work at Northwestern University at the same time serving as part time assistant at St. Luke's Pro-Cathedral, Evanston, Ill. Being forced to abandon the medical missionary project for financial reasons, he accepted the position of vicar of Trinity Church, Falton, Nev. Before beginning this work he was ordained to the priesthood by the Rt. Rev. Bertram W. Stevens at St. Mathias' Church, Los Angeles. Last summer he came to the Diocese of Salina and did supply work in Great Bend, Hutchinson, and Minneapolis. Here at St. John's he has no teach-

TWO KINDS OF STUDENTS

The number of new cadets who enter St. John's every year may be divided into two classes—those who can teach themselves and those who have to be forced by persevering teachers through the requirements. The first class will finish out their course and be good students. The other class will be grumbling over their lot and saying that a military education is not for them.

The first group will do well whatever they attempt and will win the respect of all they meet. Teachers will be glad to have them in their classes and will be proud of them. The second group will probably annoy the school authorities by asking for special privileges.

The first group will profit by their opportunities. They will take the assignments of the class room not as something to get by, but as suggestions for their own study and improvement. They will know what they are studying. They will know what the whole thing is about, and will apply what they learn to their lives. This is how they will be successful.

BACK OUR FOOTBALL TEAM

A team of any kind in its contests reflects the spirit of those backing it. When its success or failure seems immaterial to those who are supposed to be behind it, an organization cannot be expected to put much real fight into its work, for it has nothing to fight for. But, on the other hand, when the backers of a team show fight and spirit themselves and concern about its success or failure, the team can put its last ounce of energy into its work and fight to the end. The St. John's football team will reflect the St. John's spirit. Let us get behind our team.

TRAINED DOG PERFORMS

Some animals seem to possess almost human intelligence. This was the case with Buzz, a German shepherd dog, who performed for the cadet corps recently on the school campus. His master, Lieutenant Arthur Bell of Denver, a guest of Lieutenant Long, gave the demonstration. He first spoke of his work in animal training, a pastime in which he has had considerable practice.

Buzz had been taught absolute obedience and with little hesitation responded to all commands. Some of these were given in German and French as well as in English.

One of his most unusual tricks was that of climbing trees. Starting to run a short distance away, he would dash up the side of a tree and attain the crotch, nine feet above the ground.

Another trick he accomplished was that of adding and subtracting numbers. He indicated the answers by barking until the correct answer had been reached. Of course Buzz really did not understand the principles of arithmetic, but merely stopped barking when Lieut. Bell by a sharp turn of the head signaled him to do so.

Last Year's Seniors

Wm. Culp has joined the marines; Robert Boggs is working for his father in Denver; Nelson Prather is working on his farm at Elmdale, Kan.; Herbert Becker is assistant coach here at St. John's.

The following seniors are attending college:

FIRE REGULARLY ON LONG DISTANCE RANGE

Once a week groups of cadets have the privilege of arising before peep of day. Lieutenant Evans takes them out for practice at the Salina Rifle Club range at White's Ford, located about eight miles southeast of town. The boys are given instruction in firing the calibre .30 rifle course D.

From the cadets making the best records Lieutenant Evans will select a rifle team. He is arranging matches with the Minneapolis Junior Rifle Club, Salina Rifle Club, and Salina High School Rifle Team.

When cold weather sets in target practice on the calibre .22 range in the school basement will commence. Lieutenant Evans hopes to make arrangements for a home and home shoulder to shoulder rifle match with St. Joseph's Military Academy at Hays.

FOOTBALL RALLIES

On the evenings before the Haskell and Delphos football games football rallies were held after evening study hall in the southern part of the school grounds. Around a huge bonfire the cadets formed a circle. They practiced cheers and sang songs. Coach Sanders and Captain Stannard of the football team made short pep talks.

The new boys, or "rats" as they are called, played an important part at the rallies. They performed Indian war whoop dances around the fire and prayed for victory in aboriginal fashion. Several new boys were required to lead in the cheering and others to show what progress they had made in learning certain memory work required of them by the old boys.

THE REV. MR. MOORE
PREACHES TO CADETS

Owing to a delay in getting the entire corps in uniform, the cadets have attended Sunday services in the school chapel instead of marching down town to Christ Cathedral. Below are given main points from the sermons the Rev. Mr. Moore, the chaplain, preached on the first four Sundays this year.

The text of the chaplain's opening sermon was Jesus' words to Peter, "Put up thy sword in the sheath. The cup my Father hath given me to drink, shall I not drink it?" The speaker described the beauty of Christ in accepting the shameful death on the cross, even though He could easily have escaped from His enemies through use of the supernatural power that He had shown in curing the sick and raising the dead. "For men who are looking for a supremely courageous leader, Christ is the only answer," the chaplain said.

The text of the second sermon was the word of God to Gideon, "The people that are with thee are too many that I should deliver unto their Lord, lest Israel should say, 'Mine own Lord hath saved me.'" The chaplain recounted the daring exploits of history from the stand of Horatio at the bridge to the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava. "Outstripping them all," said the speaker, "was the stupendous attack of Gideon and his three hundred men which resulted in the complete rout of an army of three hundred thousand Midianites. Even so today we are called upon to be Gideons and contend against tremendous odds for the sake of the truth. It is easy to swim downstream in the river of life. It takes a man to breast the current of worldly convention and machine politics. God and one make a majority.

The third sermon was a lesson in tolerance, the text being, "God be merciful to me, a sinner." The utter uselessness of harsh criticism was demonstrated by scenes from the lives of Presidents Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, and Taft. "When we have perfected ourselves," said the chaplain, "then we can safely start in on others. In the meantime our attitude will be that of the publican in the parable."

The fourth sermon was a practical explanation of the mystic doctrine of the Holy Trinity. "Just as God is a Trinity in unity, so is man in his thought, will and feelings, or should be," the chaplain said. "Actually we see ourselves and others as human monsters, dominated exclusively by unscrupulous desire for power or downright lust. Only by constant communion with the God who is Himself a perfectly unified complexity, can we human beings hope to harmonize the varied elements of our warring natures."

The teachers' desk in study hall now stands upon a rostrum which has recently been constructed.

JOKES

Comin: "I want some lotion to kill mosquitoes."

Druggist: "Will you take it with you?"

Comin: "No, I'll have the mosquitoes fly down, and you can rub it on their tummies."

After watching the trick dog perform the other day, Captain Brown said he once saw a dog in a show that could play the piano. As the orchestra played, the dog would press down at the right time on levers placed over certain note combinations. One of the boys suggested that Captain Simpson have Inky do this so that he can help him play the organ.

The boys are wondering why Lutz doesn't care if he goes crazy; also if a certain little girl knitted a pink pair of socks for a certain sergeant.

Henze: "Did you hear about the animals that were swapped here at school?"

Moore: "What? Have Ralph Koons and Captain Simpson exchanged dogs?"

Henze: "No, Major Clem passed the buck to Lieutenant Evans and got his goat."

Blomstrom: "If I asked you to go to the show what would you say?"

Peggy: "Guess."

Blomstrom: "What does it rhyme with?"

Peggy: "Guess."

Mrs. Prince (at the dining table): "Too much starch will hurt you. I know what is best."

Burg: "You certainly are right, ma'am. The people in the laundry put too much starch in one of my shirts and it wore a sore spot on my neck."

No, Foo Bundschu does not have a Chinese friend in one of the stores near the Union Station. The "Foo Produ" on the plate glass window does not refer to a person. Some naughty boys have scratched out the "d" in "food" and "cts" in "products."

Librarian: "We are just about to close for the day. Is there anything you want to take out?"

Bradford: "Yes, that brunette in the red dress."

How about the absent minded professor who kissed his shoes good night and put his two daughters under the bed?

Davis W.: "I hear you wore your pants out."

Manard: "Yes, I generally wear them when I go out."

CADETS TROUNCE BENNINGTON

Last Half Rally Saves Game. Team Shows Great Improvement

After trailing on the short end of a six to nothing score, the "fighting cadets" beat all previous records for accomplishment in the last half of the game—for after all it isn't every team that wins a game twice in one afternoon! The results: 1. First grid victory over Bennington in four years. 2. Twelve to six victory (till last minute of play) when . . . 3. One to nothing victory was declared forfeit to St. John's when Bennington coach protested decision and refused to continue play.

Line play of the cadets was the feature of the game, while backfield performance showed decisive lack of scoring punch. According to Coach Sanders the offense must be improved considerably if the soldiers hope to add Tescott to the victory string, for the latter measured Bennington 33 to 0 earlier in the season.

AERIAL ATTACK FATAL TO ST. JOHN'S CADETS

A barrage of passes that found their way into the anxious arms of red-jerseyed receivers accounted for a Little River victory in the third game of the season. All the scoring was accomplished via the air route. St. John's threatened in the final quarter, but fumbled after a march of forty yards. Bright spot of the game was the play of the Junior varsity who replaced the varsity and delivered an account of themselves that leaves no doubt as to the future of athletics at St. John's.

JUNIOR SCHOOL SPORTS

On Thursday, October 13, the St. John's Junior School played a team from New Cambria in a game of softball. After a hard battle our boys emerged the victors by a score of 2 to 1. The game was featured by the battery of our Junior School. While Dove played a steady and brainy game at catch, Durrell struck out ten opposing batters.

On Saturday, October 15, St. John's was represented by its Junior School in a softball tournament sponsored by the Salina County School System.

Lack of experience caused the Junior school boys to lose the first game to Bridgeport. During the closing innings of the game Durrell hit a home run to end the scoring of the game at 5 to 3.

In the afternoon the Junior School played a heart-breaking game with Assaria. With a lead of one run going into the last inning, St. John's boys let up a bit and allowed the Assaria team to score two runs. The final score was 5 to 4 in favor of Assaria.

The sparkling and steady play of Dove behind the plate and at bat was the stand-out of the St. John's team during the tournament.

The Reverend V. G. Menard of Ellsworth has presented the school library with a number of books.

SHADES OF PRINCETON STALK FOOTBALL FIELD

St. John's 1938 gridiron warriors emerged in replicas of Princeton U. football uniforms. Black jerseys have the traditional zebra striped sleeves with numbers on front and back—matched by black gaberdine shell-pants with orange socks. Orange and black striped helmets complete the cadet "ensemble." The team outfits of last year are worn by the Junior Varsity.

CADETS BOW TO HASKELL AND DELPHOS TEAMS

Forward-laterals and sweeping end runs were weapons of Haskell's warriors which enabled them to add St. John's scalp to the victory belt. The fray was the opener for the cadets, and the first varsity game for the entire backfield and four linesmen. The only St. John's tally came in the third quarter when Maker H. tackled for a safety.

Coach Weller's Delphos eleven, undefeated for two years, ran roughshod over the cadets in the second game of the season. A heavy line and hard-hitting backs proved to be the combination which the St. John's gridders were unable to stop. But to strike an optimistic note—watch that Junior Varsity!

JUNIOR VARSITY

In order to provide an opportunity for boys to play and build up reserve material, Coach Sanders has created a "Junior Varsity" or "B" football team. Regular scheduled games are played with reserve teams of other schools and Junior Hi teams. The Junior Varsity is handled by Assistant Coach Becker.

During the summer an attractive stone garage with a shingled roof was erected in the rear of Vail Hall. Besides the several compartments for the placing of cars, there is a room at one end in which tools and automobile accessories may be kept. All the doors are of the sliding overhead type. Windows on three sides admit light to the building. They are about one-fourth the usual size.

The Sports Spotlight

By Clark Comin

A glimpse into the future shows a truly well rounded athletic program offered this year. Lt. Long will teach the cadets the finer points of fencing. Lt. Evans is promoting an early campaign for golden glove hopefuls, and Coach Sanders plans a tumbling team composed of junior and senior school boys. Softball, track, and varsity football and basketball complete the curriculum for the athletic minded cadet.

Orchids to Doctor Hannen for his fine services as team trainer. Gridders with charley horses and bruised muscles groan, grimace, grunt and get well—upon the application of a little manipulative therapy. The work's appreciated, Doctor.

And the chief worry of "Ball Hawk" West is just whom he is going to escort to that letterman's ball in the spring. Ah, well. . . .

Rumor has it that a certain cadet in charge of the armory will be maltreated if he doesn't stop ruffling the hair of the Eureka Flash in practice. Better be careful Cy—he loads and fires the cannon at retreat!

George held her hand and she held him. And then they hugged and went to kizn. They did not know her dad had rizn, And right nearby had stopped to lizn. Soon George went out the door a whizn. He'd like to put her dad in prizn.

The medals and cups to be awarded next commencement have been put on display in the trophy case.

The new boys were issued rifles the other day and are learning the manual of arms readily.

ing duties other than classes in Religious Education. He expects to assist in the mission field in the Diocese wherever he is needed.

Dr. Frank S. Hannen is a native of Iowa. After receiving the medical degree from Valparaiso University in Indiana he practiced medicine for a few years during which time he discovered the principle of physiological radioactivity.

Graduation from Colorado State College of Education led him to a study of high-mountain photographic light and its effects on living tissues. Results of these studies were published in "Clinical Medicine" in 1925. Later employment in the Engineering Corps of the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior enabled him to make contributions to the application of the Law of Transformation of Energy, discovered by Lavoisier in 1785.

As a graduate of an osteopathic college, the doctor has been much interested in the effects of environment on the human body. As a consequence of such study, he is now following up the work of Major Woodruff of the U. S. Army, who investigated the part played by pigmentation of the human skin in modifying the effects of sunlight on human tissues. In his present year at St. John's he is continuing experiments begun three years ago in the Longs Peak region of the Colorado Rockies, with wheat and milk, for the higher values of their calcium content.

Lieutenant L. Rex Long, instructor in English and romance languages, is from Colorado and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Denver. He has completed half his work for his Master of Arts degree. He has taught a number of years in the Colorado Military School and the Day and Evening High School of the Denver Y. M. C. A. He holds a 2nd lieutenant's commission in the Military Intelligence Reserve and hopes to complete work for his 1st lieutenant's commission this year. Lieutenant Long is married, and his wife is likewise a graduate of Denver University.

Lieutenant Wilfred N. Sanders, athletic coach and instructor in history, is from Nebraska, having received a Bachelor of Science degree from Midland College. He has also taken graduate work at Nebraska University. During his senior year at Midland College he was elected president of the student body and became a member of Blue Key, national honorary scholastic fraternity. He participated in football all four years, ending up by playing all conference center. He made "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" his junior and senior years. He is a sergeant in the 110th Q. M. Regiment, National Guard, and now is working for a commission.

CADET CORPS HAS BEEN TEMPORARILY ORGANIZED

The cadet corps is not yet completely organized, and more promotions are expected in the near future. Second Lieutenant Harry Maker is commander of the corps, and 1st Sergeant Stanard is second in command. Sergeant Carroll is in charge of the drum and bugle corps; Sergeant Riley is in charge of the armory and is range sergeant; Sergeant McDowell is personnel sergeant.

Besides those listed above, the following appointments have been made: Sergeants—Big Eagle, Blomstrom, Comin, Henze, and Lutz; corporals—Davis R., Kintz, and Tissau; privates first class—King and Manard.

The first big dance of the year will be held on Hallowe'en. It will be a tacky affair.
